About me:

I'm a certified data nerd in my professional life, having been a researcher, professor, data scientist for almost twenty years. Outside of work my passion is playing music. I love to learn new songs on piano and guitar and to play old ones. I've also written a few. While I'm not a serious dancer, I share my daughter's passion for experiencing humanity through movement. She's been threatening to teach me ballet basics for a while now, and I think the time has finally come.
