Jennifer Cruse-Sanders

About me:

Jennifer is the Director of the State Botanical Garden of Georgia. Her research and applied conservation interests are in the area of plant conservation, restoration, and how human activities impact native plant species. Through collaborative partnerships, she has helped build networks for conservation across the southeast and develop community programs to establish native plants and pollinator habitats.

Recent projects at the Botanical Garden include opening the Alice H. Richards Children's Garden, Porcelain and Decorative Arts Museum, and Discovery and Inspiration Garden, each of which has helped more people to discover the benefits of connecting with Nature. New programs at the Garden include experiential learning, horticultural therapy for dementia patients, as well as Winter WonderLights. Jennifer lives in Oconee County, and enjoys spending time in nature with her family and two golden doodles.
